We may also receive information from authorized representatives, financial institutions, software providers, tax authorities, and other sources as permitted by law.

3. How We Use Information

We use information to prepare and file tax returns, provide accounting and bookkeeping services, support tax planning and compliance, respond to inquiries, schedule appointments, manage client relationships, issue invoices, maintain records, secure our systems, and satisfy legal and professional obligations.

We may send service communications and, where permitted, educational updates. We do not use tax return information for marketing or other purposes requiring consent under Internal Revenue Code Section 7216 without obtaining the legally required consent.

4. Confidentiality of Tax Return Information

Tax return information is subject to special federal restrictions. Section 7216 and applicable Treasury Regulations generally restrict tax return preparers from using or disclosing such information except as authorized by law or valid taxpayer consent.

We limit access to authorized personnel and providers with a legitimate need, and obtain separate consent where legally required. This Privacy Policy is not a substitute for any taxpayer consent required by federal law.

5. Sharing and Disclosure

We do not sell or rent client tax return information for third-party marketing. Subject to applicable restrictions, we may share information with authorized tax and accounting software providers, secure document storage providers, hosting and IT vendors, payment processors, professional advisers, and other service providers supporting our work.

We may also disclose information to the IRS, state tax agencies, regulators, courts, or law enforcement when authorized or required by law, and in lawful business transactions subject to confidentiality requirements. Disclosures involving tax return information remain subject to Section 7216 and related rules.

6. Nevada Privacy Rights

Where applicable, Nevada consumers may submit a verified request directing an operator not to sell covered information as defined by Nevada law.

NetFintax does not currently intend to sell covered information within Nevada's statutory definition of sale. Where the Nevada opt-out provision applies, we will process verified requests within 60 days, subject to a permitted extension of up to 30 days with notice.
